'Lifetime security' bargaining

With a new United Steelworkers president to be chosen Feb. 8, bargaining for the steelmaking contract period starting July 31 cannot begin in earnest until the late winter or early spring of 1977, industry sources said during the weekend.

In addition to the Lloyd McBride vs. Edward Sadowski competition for the union presidency, attention is focusing on the possibility of at least preliminary talks being arranged soon on a "lifetime security" concept developed by union bargainers.

McBride formerly served in the local sub-district of the United Steelworkers of America and is backed for the highest office by retiring President I. W. Abel, Sadowski, Chicago district director, is openly criticizing the policies of present top officials.

The heated controversy within the union regarding its future direction may inhibit negotiating progress until the outcome of the presidential race is known. However, it is possible that joint company-union task forces may be created for informal discussions.

The security proposal involves a form of "guaranteed lifetime wage"—a minimum sum promised to the employee each year of his working life.

The effect would be to protect him from layoffs or plant closings. Indications are that such a plan would be built upon present wage-protection programs rather than involving an entirely new structure.

A United Steelworkers resolution adopted at the annual national convention last month called for seeking "full pay regardless of circumstances beyond his or her control."

It will be the final bargaining talks that are participated in by June 66, whose term ends in June.

Steel mills' sales and profitability must improve markedly before costly new benefits can be financed, some company leaders have indicated.

An experimental no-strike negotiating procedure launched in 1974 may face a severe test next year. If a lifetime wage

Coke oven rule plan assailed

Criticism is being voiced against a coke oven emission standard proposed by the U. S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Robert D. McBride, president of the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corporation, says a plan to force less coke production is illogical and could jeopardize many steel industry jobs.

McBride views an article in the American Metal Market publication as "a blatant example of the fuzzy thinking and twisted logic that seems to pervade, throughout many of our governmental agencies, in their attempt to administer the law of the land."

"The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (Osha), in defense of its proposed coke oven emission standard, has quoted Bethlehem Steel out of context to provide the uninformed public with the following syllogism:

1. "Anything that saves energy is good for the country."
2. "Coal is energy."
3. "Therefore, by enacting regulations that will reduce coke production (for use in steelmaking), we will use less coal and save energy—which is good for everyone."

File reply to sewer lawsuit

The legal answer to a lawsuit seeking to block sanitary sewer construction in Nameoki and Chouteau Townships was filed at 2:30 p.m. Friday in Madison County Circuit Court by Walter "Dick" Sparks, chairman of the Madison County Board's special sewer committee.

Sparks and Harry E. Hartman, sewer committee attorney, say they hope the original complaint and the answer can be heard before a judge within the next two weeks. This could avoid further delay in the sewer program.

Hartman noted that a copy of the answer Friday was delivered to the office of Joseph Hill, attorney filing the original complaint.

Hartman is to ask Hill to meet with him and the chief circuit judge today or tomorrow to request that the case be assigned to a judge immediately so that a hearing date can be set.

"We want to get a trial on the merits of the complaint and the answer, which should not require a great deal of testimony," Hartman said.

There were two other developments in the sewer issue late last week. There was a large turnout for a pre-bid conference of contractors and in a separate meeting the Chouteau Business Association voted overwhelmingly to endorse the sewer program.

Edward Luneau, engineer for the proposed sewers, said about 40 contractors representing a dozen large construction

Plan for St. Clair County-to-GC sewer

A contract to prepare design construction plans for a transmission line that would divert a vast amount of sanitary sewage from the East Side Levee and Sanitary District to the Granite City sewage treatment plant was awarded by the levee district board of trustees Thursday to Horner & Shiffrin Engineers, St. Louis.

The action was taken under a plan to obtain both primary and secondary sewage treatment at the Granite City plant, on a fee basis, worked out with Granite City for all of the St. Clair County area of the levee district with the exception of East St. Louis, which has its own treatment plant.

Levee district officials said

French connection here

(76th of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series)

For 90 years (1873-1973), the capital of the territory comprising the present state of Illinois was Paris, France.

While hardy and often spectacular explorers, missionaries and coureurs de bois (trappers) had pushed westward toward Illinois for the previous four decades, it was not until June 14, 1871, in a ceremony at Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, that the French laid a formal claim to the yet unexplored land.

In May 1873, the first expedition to the Illinois country began under the leadership of Father Jacques Marquette, a Jesuit priest, and Louis Joliet, an experienced woodsman and mapmaker.

Floating down the Mississippi River, they noted the natural wealth of the land, including outcroppings of coal.

Strangest of all, high on a rocky bluff below the mouth of the Illinois River, they observed a large multi-colored pictograph—green, red, and black—with the face of a man, beard of a tiger, horns of a deer, and a long fish-like tail, later called the Piasa Bird.

Turning back after passing the mouth of the Ohio River and determining that the great Mississippi emptied into the Right turning—a burning question

New Granite City traffic regulations that eliminate two right turns on red traffic lights at Nameoki and Fehling-Johnson roads are an experiment in an ongoing effort to solve mounting traffic problems in the Nameoki and Bellemeur shopping areas, officials noted last week. Some motorists fear the right turn ban may add to delay and congestion instead of reducing it.

Under ordinances enacted by the City Council this month, motorists no longer will be permitted to make right turns on a red traffic light from Nameoki Road entering Johnson Road, or to make right turns on red from Fehling Road into Nameoki Road.

The ordinances were approved on final passage upon the recommendation of City Engineer Monroe Brewer who told council members that it is hoped elimination of right turns on red signals at these points will relieve, at least to some degree, traffic congestion at two major points along Nameoki Road.

Elimination of the right turn from Fehling into Nameoki Road is designed, Brewer said, to provide a break in the traffic flow that will permit traffic emerging from the Bellemeur Shopping Center to make left turns into Nameoki.

Because of the difficulty at this point, Bellemeur merchants have appealed to Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward, a member of the council's Traffic Committee to initiate steps toward installation of a traffic signal on Nameoki at Jill Avenue.

Brewer, however, told Decatur and other aldermen that an inspection of this area by he and Department of Transportation engineers have

Talking may be hazardous to dam's future

Pilibuster plans were announced Friday by aides of U. S. Senator Gaylord Nelson (Wisconsin Democrat), who will seek to block Senate action on replacement of Alton Locks and Dam 26 facilities.

With Congress hoping to adjourn by Oct. 2, unlimited debate by Nelson might prompt fellow senators to decide against considering approval of the replacement project.

The Public Works Committee authorized it 8-3 last week, one part of a 116-project, $1 billion water resources development act.

Sen. Nelson plans to oppose the entire resources proposal until the Senate agrees to drop the section allocating $390 million for a new dam and a 1,200-foot lock two miles south of the present Dam 26.

Manufacturers lag in vaccine output, delay immunization

Failure by manufacturers to deliver A-New Jersey (swine) influenza vaccine will delay immunization schedules throughout the nation, federal authorities have informed Dr. Joyce C. Lashof, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Federal authorities and vaccine manufacturers signed contracts last week to deliver only 25 per cent of the total quantity federal authorities had earlier promised for October.

As a result of the delivery delay, on top of earlier difficulties the federal government is faced in establishing liability of manufacturers and providers of service, all 101 vaccination schedule plans submitted by local health authorities in Illinois will have to be postponed.

Dr. Lashof said Friday, "The original plans we received from regional and local health agencies were based on federal promises. If they had been fulfilled, we would have completed at least six weeks of public immunization by now.

A large share of the population would have been covered and a belt of immune individuals would have been established in the northeastern section of the state, where all flu usually hit first.

"But we cannot begin the program until the promised vaccine has been received."

Dr. Lashof said plans had been developed to cover 95 per cent of the eligible population. She added that the medical profession, other professional groups, health departments, schools, visiting nurse associations and mental health centers have given the program full and active backing. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta has also provided substantial support, she said.

The delay in delivery of vaccine will require amending all timetables, because geographic priorities become even more critical as time passes.

The Department of Public Health will provide immunization sponsors with the new schedule information as it becomes available from the federal government.

Under the current agreement, a larger proportion of bivalent vaccine for high-risk individuals (ages 60 and over or the chronically ill) has been promised at the start. Unless there are further delays, a statewide, high-risk program will begin in mid-October. It should be completed by early December. Under the high-risk program, nearly 1,400,000 persons (87 per cent of the high risk group) are expected to be covered.

Increasing supplies of monovalent vaccine for those not in the high risk group are now expected to be made available to the state in November and December, according to the current federal-manufacturer agreement. Therefore, this phase of the program will commence in November and will probably extend into the Christmas holidays.

We expect to cover about 60 per cent of the non-high-risk group individuals (ages 18 to 59, not suffering from chronic illnesses) during this phase. Local participants in the immunization program may have to supply vaccine first to those in critical occupations.

The federal government indicated that vaccine manufacturers made apparent commitments last June to deliver 113,000,000 doses of vaccine. A total of 49,000,000 doses of monovalent and 30,400,000 doses of bivalent vaccine were due by Oct. 1, when the Illinois program was to have been underway.

But on Aug. 27, federal authorities were informed that by Oct. 1, only 5,000,000 doses of monovalent and 15,300,000 doses of bivalent would be available — 25 per cent of the total promised.

Dr. Lashof said: "We regret that the deliveries promised by the federal government are not being made on time."

"Our state program has been responsible and in keeping with our obligations."

"And we assure the sponsors and supporters of the immunization program that we will continue to keep the program that way."

Liquor association donates $90,000 to Sky Ranch for Boys

The Illinois Retail Liquor Association presented a gift of over $90,000 to the Sky Ranch for Boys in South Dakota at its 91st annual state convention held last week in Springfield. Homeless and unwanted boys are cared for and educated at the ranch, which is supported solely by the liquor industry, including retailers, brewers and distillers. The Illinois association is by far the largest contributor.

Last year, the state association pledged a gift of $50,000 to construct a gymnasium at the ranch. The actual amount, presented last week, exceeded the original pledge by $40,000.

Father Murray was killed last October in the crash of a light plane while flying two new boys to the facility. The Illinois group also pledged $25,000 toward a memorial for Father Murray, who is buried on the ranch property.

Among the delegates at the convention, representing the Madison County Tavern Owners Association, an affiliate, were Charles Hester, Victor Reznak and Faye Schneider, all of Granite City; Minnie Brown, Julie Goclan and Anthony Anselmo, all of Madison; Artie Decker and Jerry Perotti, both of Collinsville; and Mary Worrell of Cottage Hill.

Principal speakers at the convention were State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon, Senator William J. Harris, Senate Majority Leader Cecil Anderson, Michael Bers, chairman of the Illinois Liquor Control Commission.

Representatives of the distillers and brewers also addressed the conferees.

The major topic of many speakers and the primary business discussed at the general meetings concerned the contributions to the business community made by the liquor industry through employment and tax revenues.

By contrast, it was noted, the high license fees and increasing insurance premium costs greatly exceed similar expenses in other businesses.

Efforts to obtain legislation to give relief to licensed liquor dealers in specific cases of repressive statutes and regulations were pledged to the conferees.

In other business, Bert Nickerson of Moline was re-elected president of the Illinois Retail Liquor Association.

Also elected for 1976-77 were: Jean Renaldo, Fox Lake, treasurer; Gene Karban of Belleville, executive secretary; and Barney Poparella, executive vice-president. Vice-presidents in each district of the state were returned to office.

Nickerson announced the association's new offices are now located in Springfield. The headquarters (formerly were based in Chicago).

Moline was selected as the site for the 92nd convention next September, and Decatur will host the organization in 1978.

Charles Hester, president of the Madison County Tavern Owners Association, said the county group will meet Oct. 12 at My Brother's Place, in Moline, to elect new officers and plan the annual spring dance and buffet.

Kidnapping charged

William D. Samson, 21, St. Louis, was charged with kidnapping and his bond was set at $5,000. He was charged with kidnapping and his bond was set at $5,000. He was charged with kidnapping and his bond was set at $5,000.

It is alleged Samson was among a group of four men who forced Marvin Mefford, 5107 Mayville Road, to drive them in Mefford's car to St. Louis Sept. 11. A knife was displayed during the incident, it was charged.

Mefford said he came out of Charlie's Restaurant, Nameoki Road and Madison Avenue, and saw some men having difficulty starting their car, next to him in the National Food Store parking lot.

He helped them in unsuccessful attempts to start the car with jumper cables, after which one displayed a knife and they forced him to drive them over McKinley Bridge to St. Louis.

When the group got out of Mefford's auto, they demanded he drive back over the bridge to Illinois, and he complied.

Police towed the car left in the lot to a holding area and arrested Samson as he and two other men attempted to claim it Wednesday. The two other men were charged with disorderly conduct and were released.

Samson was taken later Thursday to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

$1,200 BURGLARY

A $700 ladies' diamond ring and assorted jewelry worth about $500 were taken during a burglary at the home of Lawrence Heagy, 2901 Grand Ave., between 8 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. Friday. The door knob on the door from the rear enclosed porch to the house was forced open and several rooms, closets and dressers were ransacked. A neighbor saw a young man walking around the house about 11 a.m. Friday and his description has been given to police.

preparation of design plans is necessary before the district can apply to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency for grant funds to help finance construction of the treatment plant.

"The plan to use the Granite City plant is a departure from previous planning in which levee district and municipal officials in the St. Clair County area sought to build a large secondary sewage treatment system that would have served that area.

Officials failed to agree, however, on what agency would serve as sponsor in seeking federal funds, who would build the plant and who would maintain it. The disagreement led to a division of the agencies involved and eventually to the plan by the levee district to obtain both its primary and secondary treatment through the Granite City plant.

Temporary negotiations for use of the Granite City plant have been held, but the City Council has not committed the city to any firm agreement on use of the plant. No schedule of use has yet been developed.

"The Horner & Shiffrin firm has given the planning contract on the basis of qualifications submitted by Horner & Shiffrin and two other engineering firms in response to a legal publication asking that such offers be made. Other offers were received from M. B. Corlew & Associates of Edwardsville and Coer, Townsend & Associates of St. Louis.

Under present planning, the transmission line would divert levee district sanitary sewage to Granite City from areas of Centerville, Canteen and Stites townships in St. Clair County, including Fairmont City, Washington Park, National City, and Madison and Venice, that now have primary treatment at the Lansdowne treatment plant operated by the levee district near the riverfront at National City.

"No estimates of cost have been given for construction of the proposed transmission line and by-passing the Lansdowne treatment plant.

The levee board in the special meeting Thursday also confirmed the sale and signed agreements for sale of the levee district garage in East St. Louis to the Century Lease and Construction Co. of Mascoutah, which plans to produce prefabricated houses in the

Kiwanis planning golf tourney at Arlington

The Breakfast Kiwanis Club's annual "Hole-in-One" tournament has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17 from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Arlington Golf Club, according to Norman Kinder, club president.

At the group's Thursday morning meeting in Charlie's Restaurant, Kinder asked for the club's full cooperation as the event is the major money-earning project of the year. Monies raised by the project are used by the local service club for civic projects in the Quad-City area.

Ned Freeman reported that the Kiwanis peanut sales to help needy children is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Oct. 22 and 23. The Kiwanians will be selling peanuts at the First National Bank in Madison, American National Bank, First Granite City National Bank, Central Hardware and Poston and Johnson Roads.

President Kinder reported that a ladies' night and installation of officers will be held Wednesday, Sept. 29, at Charlie's Restaurant and Lt. Gov. Ed Long will be in attendance to install the new officers.

Treasurer Lewis Bunch reminded the members that dues are due and reported he is checking on the cost of replacing some toys for the special education classes at Lake School.

The club will hold another business meeting Thursday. Under discussion will be a new method of paying for meal charges. It is being recommended that members pay for their breakfast in advance so that when a member did not show up at a meeting the club would not have to pay for an unused reservation.

Mrs. Mildred Meehan, executive secretary of the Tri-Cities Chapter of the American Red Cross, accompanied by Charles Jennings of Springfield, will attend the Sept. 30 Kiwanis meeting to explain the Swine Flu inoculation program planned in Granite City this year, it was announced.

Football coach says players need discipline

Speed and self-discipline are key elements for a winning football team, according to Stan Wojcik, head football coach at Granite City High School South.

Coch Wojcik was the guest speaker at the Thursday noon meeting of the Granite City Optimist Club in the YMCA. Wojcik emphasized the need for discipline, noting that some of the young people have problems in this area as they are not taught self-discipline.

The coach said that he will not allow any students to chew gum or sleep in his classes and some can not understand why.

Wojcik noted that a major need in the South grid background is speed.

Optimist Gene Sternberg made a brief report, noting that the club is nearly out of Camelot Auction tickets and that the program soon will be printed.

The annual benefit dinner and auction will take place at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 2, at the Sunset Hills Country Club.

BURGERS FLEE

Ronald Richards, 2163 Delmar Ave., returned home at 4:30 p.m. Thursday and heard someone run out of the rear door of his home. He found the house had been ransacked. Nothing was known stolen. Entry was gained by cutting a screen in the rear porch door and cutting another screen to the bathroom window and crawling through the window.

Ross to receive the 33rd degree

Leading Freemasons of the United States, Canada, Europe and Latin America will meet in Milwaukee Sept. 23 to 30 for the annual session of the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Freemasonry for the Northern Jurisdiction.

Attendance of 2,500 Thirty-third Degree Masons and wives is expected from the 15 northeastern and midwestern states making up the $13,000-member Northern Jurisdiction. Those chosen to receive the degree Sept. 29 include Elmer G. Ross, 41 Riviera Drive, a federal management analyst.

The Thirty-third Degree, highest honor of Scottish Rite Masonry, will be awarded to 206 members of the Fraternity from the 15 states, selected by the Supreme Council because of "outstanding contributions to Freemasonry or for significant service to others reflecting credit on the Fraternity."

Executive and general sessions are scheduled throughout the week at Milwaukee's Marc Plaza Hotel and Uihlein Hall.

Among topics to be reported on are the status of Scottish Rite's longstanding program of basic research into the causes of schizophrenia, as well as a new endeavor on the part of the Northern Jurisdiction—the operation of a $6 million museum and library complex at Lexington, Mass., constructed and opened as a Masonic contribution to the nation's Bicentennial observance.

The Northern Supreme Council's new sovereign grand commander, Stanley F. Maxwell of Reading, Mass., will preside over his first meeting as chief executive officer of the 164-year-old Northern Scottish Rite Jurisdiction.

Entertainment and social events will be sponsored by the Supreme Council and the 169,000 treated at Shriners' hospitals

The Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine own and operate 23 Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children throughout North America for the treatment of both orthopedic and burn cases.

Treatment is free, without regard to race or creed. Since the first Shrine Hospital was opened Sept. 16, 1923, in Shreveport, La., more than 169,000 children from all parts of the world have been treated — "restored to health and well being, or materially aided."

Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children are located throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico and are called "the world's greatest philanthropy."

They offer the finest available care, provide training for the future orthopedist, and conduct research projects, the results of which are forwarded to the medical profession at home and abroad.

Modern equipment is found in Shriners Hospitals, whether it be in the operating room, classroom, laundry, sewing, cast and brace, or physical therapy rooms.

Auditoriums are in frequent use for special programs or recreational therapy, and the boys' and girls' wards are equipped to provide the best of enjoyment. Each Shriners Hospital is also a school and a home "away from home."

Everything possible is done to give the patient as normal a life as possible while he is hospitalized.

His education is not neglected, and area boards of education furnish qualified teachers who organize classes from the first through ninth grades to keep each patient abreast of his classes at home. Every unit in the Shriners Hospitals' chain encourages activities and interests for each patient. Toys and games are available and volunteers aid in conducting programs to keep the patients alert in hobbies, handicrafts, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

Entertainment for all ages is provided and the hospital auditorium may be used to see a movie; to meet and collect autographs from astronauts, sports figures or performers; prominent in stage, radio, television or motion picture fields; and to greet Shrine Temple clowns and Shrine

Circus performers.

Following a "where love comes first" philosophy in the treatment of children, Shriners Hospitals seek to maintain a happy and pleasant atmosphere. Visitors often say they are pleased to find that the children are happy and uncomplaining.

Not only do the youngsters help one another, but they are also quick to show pride in each little progress that one might make on the road to recovery. Many physically handicapped children do not require hospitalization. As outpatients, they are given expert care and attention, with special examining rooms and physical therapy rooms furnished without charge.

Shriners and non-Shriners support Shriners Hospitals, and not a cent of government money is appropriated for their continuance. The Shriners budget nearly $40,000,000 a year for the 22 hospitals, part of which comes from a levy on each of the nearly 1,000,000 Shriners.

Proceeds from Shrine-sponsored football, baseball, basketball games, horse show, fish fries, circuses, rodeos and other "open to the public" events also help to maintain the hospitals.

Shriners and non-Shriners alike also leave wills, endowments and gifts of money, real estate, insurance, stocks and bonds for the perpetuation of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

An application for admission to a Shriners Hospital must be sponsored by a Shriners. Parents or guardians fill out and sign the application, as well as the attending physician and the sponsoring Shriners.

A birth certificate, or affidavit as to the child's age, and a certified copy of the court order naming a guardian (if applicable) accompany the application. The form on the back of the parent's application is completed by the sponsoring Shriners.

The application is mailed, or delivered, to the nearest Shriners Hospital for action by the board of governors. The board will notify the parents or guardians of the progress of the application.

Everything that the patient may require while hospitalized — including clothing, toilet articles, laundry, linen, barbering, food, dental care, braces, crutches, and any other necessities, including medical treatment — is provided without cost to the family.

Staff members of Shriners Hospitals ask little of the parent or guardian except for "wholehearted cooperation and understanding."

Visiting hours for parents are permitted. In some hospital units, upon occasion, volunteer radio "ham" operators set up shortwave facilities, making it possible for a parent to talk unobstructed to his parents at home.

The maximum age limit is 18½, on acceptance. The St. Louis unit is located at 2001 South Lindbergh Blvd., St. Louis County, and is a 100-bed hospital.

Applications can be picked up from any Shriners, or by writing to the Anad Temple office, 609 St. Louis Avenue, East St. Louis 62201.

Sunspots may affect citizen band radios

Will increased activity of sunspots knock out citizen band radio reception for several years?

Will First Mamas, Peanuts, Snoopies, Cherokees, Dragon Ladies, Smokies and 15 million other CB-ers find their signals bouncing off the ionosphere like so many ping pong balls, and have to return to the lonely isolation of the pre-1964 ("I hear you") days?

That's what some people have been predicting, but a University of Chicago astrophysicist who has been studying the activity of the sun for decades doesn't think so.

Eugene Parker, chairman of the Department of Astronomy and Astrophysics at the university, suggests that current speculation that CB radios might be wiped out for several years is "grossly exaggerated." "The sunspots are expected to reach their maxima or peak activity beginning about 1979."

"I see no reason for people to get excited about solar activity," Parker says. "We've had it for millions of years. It's like worrying about the full moon or something." During years when sunspots are most numerous, magnetic storms are most numerous on earth.

"But we've been through solar maxima (peak sunspot activity) before when we had many short-wave radios, if not CBs," Parker says. "And there was nothing very memorable about the last one, in 1969 (when there was a big solar maximum)."

An electrician remembered a little static on the radio in 1969 and a telephone not functioning for an hour or two.

Edward Wolowicz, assistant to the chairman of the university's Department of Physics, a long-time CB-er, recalls he once heard Philadelphia police calls in Chicago on his radio receiver. But this disruption might even be less than in 1969, Parker says.

"The CB is about 15-20 or 30 megacycles, but it relies a lot on direct line of sight communication," he says. "There could be a bad day occasionally for CBs or police radios. But police radios won't be affected any more than they were in 1969."

"No one can predict how weak or strong the next solar maxima will be. Some people are predicting a weak one, and some people are predicting a strong one. Half of them are going to be right; half of them are going to be wrong. There's no way of knowing."

"Some of the solar maxima which occur every 11 years—more or less—have lots and lots of sunspots, and other just have lots of sunspots."

"We are anticipating a buildup in the sunspot cycle in the next couple of years. When the maximum will fall, no one knows exactly. Originally it was projected for 1978, but I think 1979 or 1980 is a good guess."

"It's a bit later than some had expected, but sunspots never are regular. Sometimes it drags out for 15 years between maxima instead of 10 years. Eleven is the average."

"It's been pointed out that during the seventeenth century the sun had essentially no sunspots for 70 years. There were hardly any auroral displays or other signs of solar activity."

"The telescope was invented in 1610, and sunspots were observed in 1610 and 1635. It went through two maxima—up and down, up and down. Then it just slid slowly down to a minimum and reached rock bottom about 1645."

"All of a sudden in 1715 sunspots picked up just as though nothing had happened. And the present cycle has been going on ever since."

"The sun often doesn't keep going that long with its activity. Any decade now, the sun could decide to quit the whole business and relax for a century."

"Sunspots—the broad shallow depressions whose surface lies a few hundred kilometers below the visible surface of the sun—are unpredictable. We simply don't understand how they work or why they are formed."

"And one feels a bit annoyed that here's a magnetic field—which is what makes a sunspot—and you think you're familiar with magnetic fields, and yet that magnetic field of the sun is behaving in a way you can't account for. So you feel challenged to figure it out."

I think the sunspot is only the symptom of the activity. The stream of charged particles pouring out of the sun."

He is also known for his "general dynamo equation" concerning the effect of the motions of fluids and gases on the general magnetic field of earth, the sun, and the galaxy or Milky Way.

He predicts the U.S. will pull through the next spurge of sunspot activity "with no trouble at all" and CB-ers will be putting good numbers on their buddies for some time to come.

ROLLETTES CLUB HONOR BIRTHDAY MEMBERS
The birthdays of Mesdames Reatta Radefeld, Joyce Waller and Mary Ann Buttens were celebrated by members of the Rollettes Club last week.

Mrs. Diana Wilson, 2014 Rockwith Ave., entertained the group and awarded prizes in the games to Betty Brooks and Barbara Monroe, a guest.

A dessert luncheon was served to those named and to Mesdames Helen Warfield, Edith Wofford, Judy Gregory, Toni Short, Jeanette Wilson and Connie Tinsley. Mrs. Tinsley will host the next meeting.

Credit rights, responsibilities

There are many instances in which it is a distinct advantage to be able to buy a useful and necessary item on the installment or time payment plan. But the Illinois State Bar Association says the invitation to "buy now and pay later" should never be accepted without full awareness of what it involves.

Installment purchasing involves more money, since interest charges and other costs are added to the cash price of the merchandise. Moreover, it usually involves signing a contract of sale, known in legal terms as a security agreement, stating the exact amounts and frequency of payments.

The State Bar says purchasers who sign a security agreement are committing themselves to making payments as set forth in the sales contract.

Failure to make the required payments can result in the seller repossessing the merchandise or obtaining a judgment against the purchaser.

Once notice of repossession has been given by a purchaser, it can be prevented by paying the debt in full. Similarly, the purchaser can reclaim the merchandise after repossession by paying the debt promptly.

But if prompt payment is not received by the seller, the merchandise may be resold. The proceeds credited to the amount owed on the contract.

If the sale results in the creditor receiving an amount in excess of what is owed, the purchaser is entitled to the overage. However, if the resale results in less than the balance due, the purchaser may be liable for the deficiency.

Another tool available to the seller in cases of default in payment is to obtain a judgment against the purchaser.

When a promissory note is made a part of the security agreement, there is usually a clause in the note permitting the court to enter a judgment without notice to the consumer, for the full unpaid balance plus attorneys' fees and court costs.

This clause is called a "confession of judgment" clause, and the consumer should be aware of the right of the seller to obtain a judgment under those circumstances.

The consumer also has rights when signing an agreement to purchase merchandise. If the merchandise is defective, the consumer has recourse against the seller to cause replacement or repair of the item.

Defects in merchandise do not necessarily release the purchaser from the obligations under the sales contract, but do give the consumer a defense if the seller or the person to whom the security agreement has been assigned or sold takes action to collect.

Upon discovering a defect in a purchased item, the purchaser should immediately notify the seller and the party lending the money for the purchase, the ISBA emphasizes.

The seller who wishes to disavow any liability for repairs or replacement of possibly faulty merchandise may offer the merchandise for sale "as is."

Ordinarily, if a buyer accepts an item "as is," any future claim against the seller is forfeited. The bar association cautions consumers to carefully consider the consequences before agreeing to purchase merchandise that is offered "as is."

Lutheran pastor joins ministry at SIUE campus

The Rev. Eugene Thiemann, a Lutheran pastor, has joined the ranks of the campus ministry at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Thiemann served two years with Radio Voice of the Gospel in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, as the English program organizer. Radio Voice of the Gospel is an international Christian radio station broadcasting in more than a dozen languages in places throughout most of Africa, the Middle East and India.

Prior to his service in Ethiopia, Rev. Thiemann was director of mass media research for the Lutheran Hour, a radio program heard some 1,200 times each week in the United States and about 40 other countries.

Rev. Thiemann joined the Lutheran Hour after spending eight years in the Republic of the Philippines, where he worked first as an evangelistic missionary and later as director of mass communications for the Lutheran Church in the Philippines.

The minister received a bachelor of divinity degree from Concordia Theological Seminary in Springfield, Ill., in 1962 and a bachelor of arts degree from Valparaiso University.

While serving in the capacity of Lutheran pastor on the SIUE campus, Rev. Thiemann plans to act as a "teenager" to the student population. He says he would like to serve as a bridge between troubled students and their parents, between their home environment and the university, and between students and their church.

Rev. Thiemann and his wife, Anna Belle, are the parents of five children.

Howlett says coal can fuel economic growth

Rising needs for energy challenge Illinois to produce more coal without hurting the environment.

Michael J. Howlett, Democratic candidate for governor, said last week.

He said he favors increasing use of nuclear power, but necessary controls and safety provisions, and that Illinois has enough coal underground to help solve the national energy shortage.

"Illinois is first in the nation in bituminous coal reserves and third in total coal reserves," said Howlett.

"As other forms of energy grow short and national energy needs increase, the nation must turn to its coal reserves."

"For Illinois, this is a challenge and an opportunity. The challenge will be to increase our coal production in a responsible way that will not damage the environment."

"The opportunity is for more jobs in a time of unemployment, more business in the mining areas and more revenue for state and local government without higher taxes."

"We now produce 11 percent of the country's coal with $7 operating coal mines. They employ 15,000 workers, and produce 50 million tons of coal annually."

"Eleven new mines are under construction, with a capacity estimated to increase our annual production 40 percent. The new mines will employ 4,400 new workers."

"Scientific research is helping meet environmental regulations restricting use of our three to five per cent sulfur coal."

"State government must work with the scientific community and the federal government to develop new ways of using Illinois coal without damage to the air we breathe."

Howlett said three recent federal projects have been awarded to Illinois to help solve long-term environmental problems. He also favors immediate action to:

1. Investigate proposals to blend Illinois coal with low-sulfur coal from other states.

2. Find areas where environmental standards can be met without health danger, to allow burning coal in Illinois.

3. Assemble a state team of top experts to find quick solutions.

He said the state can help the industry on transportation, personal safety and manpower, as well as environmental problems. The educational system is helping train mining engineers and mechanics.

He said the state could cut "red tape" with "one-stop" power plant siting.

"When constructing or expanding power facilities, including coal mines and coal processing plants, the developer must obtain permits from the Environmental Protection Agency, the Illinois Commerce Commission and other boards and agencies," said Howlett. "This is an expensive, time-consuming process."

"It makes more sense for the developer to apply to only one state office for only one permit, decided after all relevant standards have been considered by only one decision-making body."

"We can do it without sacrificing environmental quality or safety. It is a matter of streamlining."

"I intend to make one-step siting a cornerstone of our energy program, and my experience in state government will help make it workable."

"Illinois can do more than help solve the nation's energy crisis. We can use coal to fire the engines of our own economic progress."

RECORD ENROLLMENT
Fall semester enrollment at Eastern Illinois University (Charleston) has hit a record high of 9,252, a 2.9 per cent increase over last fall's 8,994. Of the 1976-77 total, 860 students are enrolled in graduate school. A further breakdown shows 4,438 men and 4,814 women.

Coke oven

to its ultimate illogical end, we could cease making coke entirely, shut down our blast furnaces and go out of business—all for the good of the country.

"Of course, the fact that 500,000 employees in the steel industry would find themselves jobless might cause some concern—but then some other government agency could worry about that problem."

"I firmly believe that our legislators enact laws in all good faith."

"But I also believe that a great percentage of the bureaucrats who define and administer these laws are either incompetent or blind to the basic intent of the law as written."

"Is it any wonder that we in the business world recent the intervention and direction of government in our day-to-day operations?"

"We, at Granite City Steel, fully accept our responsibility to our employees, to the community and to abide by the law."

"But we will continue to exert, preach, pray and work for pragmatism and common sense in our dealings with the government," McBride concluded.

The article referred to relates that "steel firms across the nation are likely to lose hundreds of thousands of tons of coke, coke oven gas and coal tar if they are forced to adhere to proposed coke-oven emission standards, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration has found."

"Osha, which is in the final process of finalizing regulations aimed at protecting workers from coke-oven emissions, relied on estimates submitted by major steel producers in its final environmental impact statement on the effect of the standards on the industry. The impact statement was published in the Federal Register."

"Osha found that implementing its coke-oven emission standards would result in a loss of coke production and a resultant loss of fuels produced as by-products in the coking process."

"In one case, Osha reported that Bethlehem Steel Corp. estimated a loss of 700,000 net tons of coke, as well as the loss of hundreds of thousands of tons of coke oven gas, coal tar and light oil."

In another example, Republic Steel Corp. estimated that adhering to the Osha standards would result in additional energy requirements on the order of 150-million feet of gas, 1.8 million kilowatt hours of electricity and 217,000 pounds of steam.

"The loss of energy and coke production is generally attributed to having to reduce coking rates in order to assure that the coke is thoroughly coked."

"It is also said to discontinue the practice of pushing coke which are not satisfactorily coked out in order to recover loss time in delays."

"Osha argues, however, that there is evidence that offsetting energy savings may result from implementing coke standards."

"They said the savings would come in the form of coal saved in producing less coke, in the production of higher quality coke, which would be more efficient in steelmaking, and in retaining more of the by-products in the coke ovens instead of losing them as emissions."

"Osha said that Bethlehem Steel Corp. estimated that for every ton of coke that is not produced, due to longer coking cycles, for example, approximately 1.45 tons of coal is saved. Hence the loss of production of 700,000 tons of coke results in a savings of 1,020,000 tons of coal."

"Osha also found that its coke oven emissions standards would not have any impact on the quality of wastewater, air quality or solid waste generated by the steel industry."

"They added that coke plant employees, whose health would be improved by the control of coke-oven emissions 'would require less frequent use of medical care or medical resources.'"

"Osha is expected to release its final coke-oven emissions in about 30 days."

"While Osha officials have not disclosed what the final standards may contain, Osha's environmental impact statement notes that the standards may include permissible levels of coke emissions exposure, respiratory protection, personal protective equipment and medical surveillance."

"In addition, Osha is also considering such alternatives as control of all visible emissions from coking stations and various control strategies."

French

of Mexico, they returned across the beautiful prairie heart of the future state, following the Illinois River northward.

In the spring of 1875, Marquette founded the Mission of the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin near present-day Ottawa to minister to the Kaskaskia Indians, but died in the wilderness soon afterwards.

Joliet returned to Montreal, tragically losing his first-hand notes of discovery on the way.

And because the Jesuits were no longer in favor at the French Court, he was unable to return to Illinois.

Robert Cavalier, sieur de la Salle, and Henri de Tonti began development of the new land. LaSalle built Fort Grevecourt near present-day Peoria in 1680, and Fort St. Louis on Starved Rock.

But religious and political bickering in Paris resulted in his loss of official support, and he was left the Illinois country in 1685.

LaSalle went on to discover the mouth of the Mississippi River and to claim all of the Louisiana Territory for France, only to die ignominiously, shot from ambush by his own men.

In 1699, the Seminary of Foreign Missions founded the Mission of the Holy Family at Cahokia, but the next year the Jesuits closed their mission at Chicago.

Mission sites followed the movement of the Indians, and in 1703 Marquette's Mission of the Immaculate Conception was moved to its third site, Kaskaskia.

For the next century, it was to be the commercial and cultural center of the Illinois country.

In 1717, administrative control of Illinois, originally a dependency of Canada, was shifted to Louisiana.

The area was not considered particularly promising for the French, concentrated on procurement of precious metals and trade, ignoring the potential of prairie lands.

Fort de Chartres, upstream from Kaskaskia, became the civil and military headquarters of the territory.

In 1720, Philippe Renault brought the first slaves to Illinois to work in gold mines.

While the mines never materialized, the slaves remained.

By 1763, between 1,500 and 2,000 French, holding 500 slaves, lived in the Illinois territory—chiefly in the American bottoms area between Kaskaskia and Cahokia.

The end of French rule in Illinois came, as it began, far away.

British capture of Quebec and Montreal in the French and Indian War broke French power.

All land east of the Mississippi River (except for New Orleans) was ceded to the English in 1763.

In its 90 years of ownership, France failed to significantly colonize Illinois or to solve the central problem of empire: how to consolidate control while providing for the colonists political equality with citizens of the mother country.

Policy toward the territory depended on the whims of the court at Versailles.

Rivalry between Jesuits and other French Catholic orders complicated that policy still further.

A lasting French influence in religion, culture and language remains along the Mississippi River.

But it would be the American frontiersmen, not the French—or the British, either—who would finally appreciate the potential of Illinois.

Four persons were injured during the American Steel Foundries picnic at Lee Park in Venice Saturday—one in an accident, and three when a pan of hot grease was knocked over and grease burned them.

Melody Dunlap, 11, of 194 Viola Jones Homes, Venice, suffered first degree burns to her right hand, Freda Wright, 26, East St. Louis, suffered burns to her right arm and first degree burns to her right wrist, and Tony Williams, 14, East St. Louis, suffered first and second degree burns to his right elbow and right forearm when grease was spilled on them.

It was reported a man bumped into the tent where fish was being fried and knocked over one of the deep fat fryers at 7 p.m. Saturday. The three were taken by ambulance to the hospital. All were released after treatment.

Harold Hunter Sr., 34, of 1733 Collinsville Ave., Madison, was injured when his motorcycle fell over twice while he was attempting to drive from the picnic at 7:45 p.m. Saturday. He told police a car ran his motorcycle off the road both times.

companies attended the pre-bid conference Thursday in the Madison County Courthouse to ask technical questions about the plans before submitting their construction bids.

"We were pleased at the turnout and I think it indicates we are going to get some fine bids," Junesau commented after the conference.

Sparks also attended that conference and commented later, "The contractors have very few questions which, to me, shows our engineers did a good job in designing the sewers and preparing the specifications."

Sparks also commended Hartman for his work in preparing the answer to the lawsuit, saying it appears to thoroughly answer all of the charges in the original lawsuit.

Hartman said the 11-page answer teaches all of the legal allegations made in the lawsuit. It supports the answers with six exhibits of transcripts, ordinances, resolutions, notices and other documents necessary to prove that the county fulfilled all its pertinent laws in establishing the sewer district.

"We feel everything has been done according to the book, and we feel we have documented that," Hartman noted.

Some of the major points in the answer include documentation that there was adequate notification to the residents of the district that a public hearing on the special taxing district was to be held; that the committee followed appropriate statutes in establishing the district; and that there is no Constitutional validity in the objection that the amount of taxes proposed for some properties exceeds the value of sewers to those properties.

Answering an allegation that residents of the proposed district were not adequately alerted of a public hearing on the district, Hartman included evidence that 5,000 notices were mailed to every address in the collectors' 1974 tax books, and other notices were mailed to persons known to be residing in other residences since 1974.

Notice of the public hearing also was published in legal form and in news articles.

"The fact that nearly every person filing the suit was present at the public hearing shows that the notices were adequate in reaching persons who might be opposed to creating the special tax district," Hartman said.

Responding to the allegation that the committee does not have legal authority to establish a taxing district, Hartman cited provisions of the 1970 state constitution and the legislative actions empowering governmental groups to establish such districts for public improvements.

"We lived with those statutes religiously, and we feel we can prove that in a hearing," Hartman commented.

He said an argument that some will pay taxes exceeding the value of the sewers has no Constitutional grounds and should not pose a valid objection.

"I don't see one argument in the lawsuit which we have not been able to adequately answer."

"Those opposed to the sewer project will want to have their day in court, and may want to give testimony on their objection. But I see this issue as one which will be decided on the law, and we followed the law to the letter," Hartman continued.

Sparks said a rapid hearing on the lawsuit would assure that the project continues on schedule.

Sale of general obligation bonds would begin as soon as the suit is settled.

Bids for the construction work will be received Sept. 30 for contracts to be awarded next month.

resulted in conclusions that installation of a traffic signal at Hill Avenue "would not be feasible" because of the complexities of entrances and exits from Coolidge Junior High School in that vicinity.

Decatur responded that "Something has to be done out there. The merchants are screaming for a light."

Brewer said that the elimination of the right turn from Fehling into Nameki Road was recommended because of the accident potential resulting from right turns from Nameki into Johnson Road while traffic was proceeding straight ahead from Fehling into Johnson Road on a green light.

Further complicating the traffic flow at that intersection, one of the busiest in the city, is traffic into and out of a service station on that corner, Brewer added. Elimination of the right turn is expected to improve the safety factor, he said.

Warriors almost turn 9-6 defeat into victory as time runs out

Coach Stan Wojcik's GCHS South riders may be tagged with the nickname "cardiac Warriors" after Saturday night's 9-6 losing thriller to the O'Fallon Panthers at the Granite City Stadium.

South yielded the visitors little ground in the contest, holding O'Fallon to 131 yards and 45 yards in the air on one aerial completion in six attempts. The Warriors outdid the Panthers statistically but not on the scoreboard.

The Warriors picked up 138 yards on the ground, including 71 by Mike Clark and 38 by Bob Ronney.

Clark led South in pass reception yardage with one catch good for 22 yards. Quarterback Keith Champion threw for 50 yards on four completions in 13 tries.

Each team fumbled away the ball once. South intercepted the Panther passes while O'Fallon was able to pick off one.

The Warriors gained 22 first downs and held the visitors to 13 penalties hurt O'Fallon considerably, nine for 115 yards. South was penalized three times for a total loss of 25 yards.

O'Fallon led 9-0 after the first period, the Warriors 6-2 at the half and the visitors 9-6 at the end of the third quarter.

Champion was among the heroes on defense as well as offense, stepping in to grab two Panther passes out of the air.

The "cardiac" comment stems from South's rally in the waning minutes of play. O'Fallon was ahead by the final score and the Warriors had the ball on their own 41-yard line with 1:32 left in the game.

A pass attempt by Mike Forshaw on a halfback option, to Tim Anderson at O'Fallon's 30, was missed but a penalty which moved the ball from the original line of scrimmage to O'Fallon's 44.

Champion scrambled 16 yards on a keeper, followed by a reverse handoff to Clark and another Panther penalty which spotted the ball at the 13.

The Warrior quarterbacks released an aerial and it found the outstretched hands of teammate Dave Thornton at the six-yard line. Thornton pulled it in just before stepping out of bounds.

A three-yard loss followed the pass, but a keeper by Champion placed South at the one-yard marker with one second showing on the clock.

Taking the handoff from Champion, Clark plunged through the right side of the line but O'Fallon's defense barely prevented a touchdown that would have won the game for South.

The Warriors had yielded two points to the visitors when the contest was only two minutes old.

South took the opening kickoff and three plays later was attempting a fourth down punt. The snap from center went sailing over the kicker's head and into the end zone for an O'Fallon safety.

The Panthers retained possession on the ensuing kick and immediately moved into Warrior territory. Champion intercepted at his own nine-yard line to thwart the enemy threat.

Early in the second quarter, following the Panthers' punt from their line to O'Fallon's 42, South alternated for carries between Clark and Bob Ronney to move in eight plays to the opponents' 16. From there, Clark took a handoff and whirled into the end zone for a 6-2 South lead.

A two-point conversion pass fell incomplete.

Champion got his second pass interception in the third quarter at his own 18 following a drive by O'Fallon from its own 13-yard line.

The aerial toward Panther Jim Thoman was literally taken from the receiver's waiting hands by Champion.

O'Fallon scored late in the third period following a recovery for a fumbled South handoff at the Warrior 34.

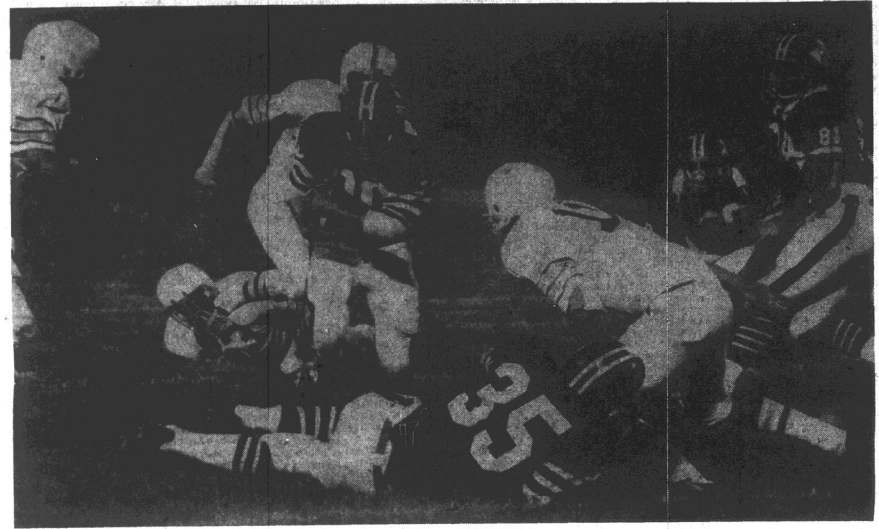

South's defense momentarily held the Panthers before Dave Rowe picked up two yards and then carried it in on a 32-yard reverse play. Rob White made good the point-after on a placement kick.

The Warriors threatened to score early in the final period after taking an O'Fallon punt at South's 32.

Clark got one yard on a carry, followed by a pass from Forshaw, again utilizing the option play. Clark was intercepted by O'Fallon's 47.

The drive ended when an aerial from Champion to Jay Heubner went off the fingertips of the intended receiver and into the hands of O'Fallon's Randy Rainwater.

The final march toward the goal was destined for later in the fourth quarter, but time ran out on the Warriors' hopes.

Soccer Warriors gain 9-0 shutout win at Waterloo

A soccer contest set for Oct. 18 between GCHS South and Waterloo instead was played Friday at Waterloo, with South blanking the hosts 9-0.

Coach Gene Baker relates that the contest was rescheduled due to Waterloo having to participate in a tournament on the original date.

The Warriors peppered the hosts' goal with 31 scoring attempts, 12 personally stopped by the goalkeeper.

South's defense momentarily held the Panthers before Dave Rowe picked up two yards and then carried it in on a 32-yard reverse play. Rob White made good the point-after on a placement kick.

The Warriors threatened to score early in the final period after taking an O'Fallon punt at South's 32.

Clark got one yard on a carry, followed by a pass from Forshaw, again utilizing the option play. Clark was intercepted by O'Fallon's 47.

The drive ended when an aerial from Champion to Jay Heubner went off the fingertips of the intended receiver and into the hands of O'Fallon's Randy Rainwater.

Football Steelers shut out Collinsville 9-0 but Jateff injured

GCHS North defeated the Collinsville Kahoks 9-0 in the gridiron at the Granite City Stadium Friday night in a defensive gem. Senior Bruce Jateff was hurt and was lost for the season.

Senior Fred Clay was the Steelers' offensive workhorse against the Kahoks, gaining 108 of North's 175 yards earned on the ground. He also pulled in a series for 54 yards of the Steelers' 73 yards garnered on passes.

Quarter scores were 0-0, 9-0 and 9-0.

Clay's rushing yardage, 83 yards were picked up on a TD run on a handoff from Quarterback Greg Corey with 2:42 left in the first half.

Clay's scamper down the right sideline behind key blocking from teammates followed a 35-yard field goal boot by Corey four minutes earlier.

Jateff picked up 42 yards rushing for the Steelers, including a 10-yard sprint in the fourth period which resulted in Jateff suffering a broken right leg when tackled by Collinsville defenders.

Coach Tom Wyrzyk said Jateff will be out of action for the remainder of the season. Jateff's injury may be taken over by Leo Pelek, who had 25 yards rushing and was the recipient of two Corey passes for 15 yards against the Kahoks.

North's defense held the Kahok offense on three different occasions, forcing field goal attempts which failed to find their marks.

Clay and the Steelers opened the contest with a 24-yard kickoff return to North's 46, but four plays later in Kahok territory, a fumble enabled Collinsville to take possession.

In the opening seconds of the second period, North threatened to score following a ground and aerial advance from Collinsville's 37 to the 11, aided by a long punt return by Robin Smith. But a fumble was recovered by Collinsville's Rick George.

Failing to move past the 13, Collinsville was forced to punt away, with a fair catch called in the first half.

An incomplete Corey pass led to a pass interference call against Collinsville, putting the ball at the 25.

North lost five yards on an illegal procedure call and Corey then hit Clay with a screen pass good for four yards.

A fourth-down field goal attempt by Corey went sailing through the uprights for a 3-0 North lead with 6:14 remaining in the first half.

Following a 46-yard field goal attempt by Collinsville, North took over on its own 20-yard line.

A one-yard loss by Leo Pelek preceded Clay's long downfield run for a TD. An extra point kick attempt by Corey was blocked by Kahok Jim DuVall.

With 38 seconds left in the half, Collinsville threw an end zone pass from North's 12. It fell incomplete and Quarterback

Rob Jackstadt found Bill Eberts wide open in the end zone for another aerial. However, the ball fell off the fingertips of the intended receiver.

Indict officer in shooting

A Madison County grand jury Friday indicted St. Louis police officer Glenn E. Stovall, 38, St. Louis, on a charge of voluntary manslaughter.

It was alleged Stovall shot Hank W. Dunn, 23, Fairview Heights, with a gun Aug. 4, 1976, at Stovall's brother's service station near State Park Place. Dunn was pronounced dead at Bellevue Memorial Hospital after the shooting.

Stovall's brother, Jerry Stovall, 38, St. Louis, was beaten during the incident and was a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital. He is recuperating from his injuries.

It was alleged Glenn Stovall was on duty and was visiting his brother's service station when two men in a car arrived and an argument ensued over the amount of gasoline put into the car.

When the disagreement turned to fighting, Glenn Stovall allegedly ordered the men to halt or they would be shot. He then allegedly fired one shot at each man, the fatal bullet striking Dunn.

$3,000 fire; suspect arson

Fire at 3:30 p.m. Friday caused an estimated $3,000 damage to the home of Ricky Collins on, 2143 Grand Ave. Granite City firemen were on the scene one hour and 25 minutes.

The cause of the fire is not known but is under investigation. Collins said he had left his house only 15 minutes before the fire was noticed and there were no signs of fire when he left.

Firemen arrived and found flames in the basement burning the door, joists and other wood. Shift Commander Charles Hileman congratulated them for rapidly extinguishing the flames, saving the two and one-half story frame structure from further damage.

Damage was estimated at $2,500 to the building and $500 to its contents.

Phone service is disrupted

Telephone service at GCHS South was disrupted shortly before noon Friday when equipment being used to dig into the ground between the school's cafeteria and the gymnasium accidentally cut an underground communications cable. Full service was restored by 5 p.m.

Ron Landman, maintenance supervisor of the Granite City School district said an underground steel line leading into the school had broken and a backhoe vehicle was being utilized at the time of the mishap.

Wallace repeats as late model champ

Russ Wallace of Arnold, Mo., successfully defended his late model stock car track title at Tri-City Speedway, capturing a "heat" race and trophy dash before placing fourth in the feature race, won by Bobby Bizzell of St. Charles, Mo.

Prior to the start of the evening's racing program, Wallace and sportsman class driver Kris Krohn of St. Louis carried the American flag while they slowly drove their race cars around the oval track during Miss Melanie Asadorian's vocal rendition of the national anthem.

Following Bizzell across the finish line were Johnny Prior, Bill Myers, Wallace and Norm Cox.

Cox, Jerry Atkins and Don Phoebe joined Wallace as heat race winners.

Myers needed only 306 points to tie Wallace for the 1977 championship, but the Missouri driver's strong finishing positions blocked Myers from closing the gap.

Jerry Zehnle of St. Louis was victorious in the sportsman division main event. John Asadorian was second, Rick Bayer third and Kris Krohn fourth. Bayer and Wolfmeier were heat race winners.

Wib Spalding of Pontoon Beach led the first midweek division 30-a.p.m. event from start-to-finish, with current season point champion Jon Backlund of Kansas City, Mo., placing behind him.

St. Louisian Bernie Ford won the second midweek 30-a.p.m. race, with Duke DeRosa of Springfield second and Mick Stroud of St. Louis third.

Stroud also captured a special 10-a.p.m. race, with Ted Rosen and Spalding placing behind him.

Trojans at Eldorado Tuesday after 20-14 loss to Warrenton

Madison High School's football Trojans take to the road tomorrow for a 7 p.m. contest at Eldorado, with Coach Nick Jakich and Trojan fans hoping for the first win of the young season. MHS lost 20-14 here Saturday afternoon to Warren County High of Warrenton, Mo.

Now with an 0-2 record, Madison will meet a team that two years ago made it to the state Class 2A quarterfinals with first-year Coach Al Way at the helm.

Eldorado's Eagles have a 1-1 record this season, losing 35-22 to Carmi and then narrowly defeating Christopher 15-14 Friday night.

Guided by third-year starting Quarterback Rusty Phillips, a 6-0, 180-pound senior, the Eagles are a ball-throwing club, with occasional ground plays by Bob Horton, 220-pound senior back.

Phillips last year threw nine touchdown aeriels, with Eddie Lane, a 6-3 junior, his favorite receiver.

Tomorrow's contest could turn into a passing match between Phillips and Madison's Joe Piechocinski, who Saturday completed 11 passes in 28 attempts for a total of 151 yards, accounting for all of his team's points in the air.

Quarter scores here Saturday were 6-0, 13-0 and 20-0. Four passes were intercepted by Warrenton, and the Trojans were held to a total of 69 yards rushing. Madison lost one fumble and was penalized nine times for 95 yards.

Madison gained an impressive 25 first downs. Warrenton gave MHS opportunities to control the contest, the Warriors lost 14 yards on 11 penalties, lost two fumbles and saw one aerial intercepted.

Netting only 39 yards in the air, including one TD, Warrenton had the run of the field, rushing for 212 yards and two touchdowns. Warrenton gained 19 first downs.

Madison's ground game may have been hampered by the absence of Sophomore James Heard, who was attending a wedding and did not appear on the field until the third quarter. The Warriors meanwhile were making a TD drive for a 20-0 lead.

In the final period, Madison got on the scoreboard for the first time with 5:37 left when Heard hauled in a 41-yard pass in the end zone. A two-point conversion aerial to Pete Fecurka followed, making the score 20-8.

The TD was set up by Trojan Robert Booker when he recovered a Warrenton fumble at the visitors' 10-yard line. Piechocinski had carried the ball eight yards on the next play, followed by the Piechocinski to Heard TD pass.

The second Trojan TD with 3:25 remaining also followed a fumble recovery.

Warrenton had taken the kickoff off Madison's first TD at the visitors' 27. After a gain, a Warrenton fumble at the 29 was jumped on by Prince Giles, giving Madison possession with 4:35 left.

Piechocinski immediately hit Heard with an aerial at Warrenton's 12, but a 15-yard penalty against the Trojans placed the ball at the 27.

Bochanin was the next recipient of a pass, also at the 12. An end zone pass to Giles fell incomplete but an interference call against Warrenton moved the ball half the distance to the goal, at the six.

Following a no-gain ground play in which Bochanin suffered a leg injury, Piechocinski connected with Rudy Rangel with a pass in the end zone. A two-point conversion attempt on a pass to Heard was incomplete.

A Madison punt to the Trojan 48 after four minutes of the first period was followed by a 15-yard penalty against Madison.

Four plays later, John Dreyer, who gained 118 yards rushing in the game, carried the ball in from 19 yards out. The extra point attempt failed.

Warrenton went ahead 13-0 in the second quarter. Recovery of a fumble on a fourth down snap gave Warrenton possession at Madison's 14.

After ground gains of one and then two yards, a pass to Keith Luecke clicked for a TD. The extra point boot with 3:06 left in the half added to the score.

Taking the ensuing kickoff at the 44, Madison moved to within striking range five plays later to Warrenton's 13-yard line. An aerial to Giles in the end zone was nullified by a holding penalty against Madison.

The Trojans' scoring threat ended when a pass was intercepted at the 10-yard-line with only seconds left in the half.

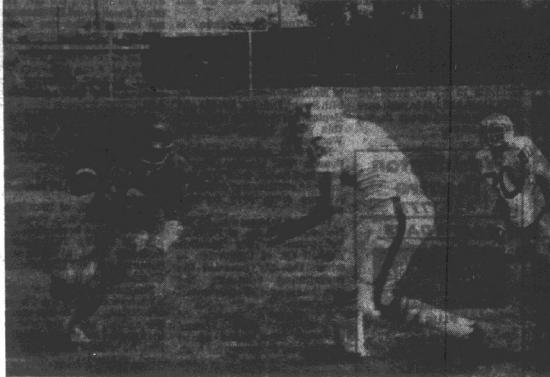

Madison opened the third quarter with good field position upon taking the kickoff, which traveled only 15 yards from Warrenton's 40. The ball struck a Madison player in the chest, bounced off and was downed by Trojan Ed Burns.

A pitchout to Alfred Crawford moved the ball seven yards and a penalty against Warrenton placed the ball at the visitors' 28.

Handoffs to first Dale Woodson and the Fecurka moved Madison to the 12-yard-line, but a fumble on the next play at the eight was recovered by the Warriors.

Warrenton then marched in 17 plays to Madison's two-yard marker for a TD with 1:10 left by Quarterback Harry Bass.

The Trojan rally followed in the final period, but Warrenton insured the victory by intercepting a Madison pass with 1:09 left and using two plays to run out the remaining time.

Well, it's been a long dry spell. We were running a special program on Monday so there was no room for the bulletin; but we're back on schedule. Since our last column the pork market has really eased up and today's Pork Steaks at 79 cents are a full 20 cents a lb. lower than 60 days ago. We are making some great Pork Sausage (home-made) nothing but ground pork butts and seasoning. These cool mornings lend themselves to some Pork Sausage for breakfast (or any other time). Some other items, along with the Pork Sausage now about extra large eggs at 79 cents per dozen. While Pork came down, eggs went up. Our chain competition is selling extra large in the 90's so this 79 cents is a real buy... We are definitely back to two separate ads. We tried the "one ad" but it didn't work out. We get too many good items that are sufficient for three days that we just have to turn (like today's Pork Steak Sale) so we're back to the old program. We will also be running items in the Thursday of that were not available on Monday and vice-versa. Remember, Schermers Bros are in business to save you money. We hope you will let us do it.

Campus visits by 6 president hopefuls

Names of six candidates for president of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville were announced Friday by the Presidential Search Committee and the candidates will begin a series of two-day campus visits Wednesday.

W. Deane Wiley, chairman of the search committee, said the candidates, listed alphabetically, are:

George Christensen, vice-president for academic affairs, Iowa State University, Ames, Ia.

Richard Fontana, dean of the faculty and dean of the Graduate School, Southeastern Massachusetts University, North Dartmouth, Mass.

Andrew J. Kochman, acting president of SIUE.

Robert H. Maier, professor of science and environmental change and of environmental administration, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

William M. Shanhouse, vice-president for administrative services, University of Iowa, Iowa City, Ia.

And Kenneth A. Shaw, vice-president and dean of the college, associate professor of sociology, Towson State College, Baltimore, Md.

Chairman Wiley said each candidate will have dinner with the search committee after arriving on campus and will spend the following two days touring and interviewing with administrators, faculty, staff, students, alumni and representatives of other constituencies.

Wiley will host an open meeting with each candidate from 4 to 5:30 p.m. on the second day of the visit.

Christensen is scheduled to arrive Wednesday for the first visit, Thursday and Friday. The other candidates and the dates of their visits are: Shanhouse, Sept. 26-28; Kochman, Sept. 26-30; Fontana, Oct. 3-5; Shaw, Oct. 6-8; and Maier, Oct. 11-13.

Wiley said all persons attending the constituency interviews will be requested to fill out an evaluation form and turn it in to a member of the search committee at the end of each interview session. He emphasized that the evaluation forms will not be considered ballots.

"While the committee feels that this evaluation will be an important avenue of information, the committee will finally decide on those candidates to be submitted based on a wide variety of information developed on each candidate," Wiley said.

Letters with information about the candidates and interviews are being sent to all faculty and staff, and all members of the university community are being urged to attend the constituency meetings as well as general meetings.

The search committee is charged with reviewing all candidates for president and submitting a list of recommended candidates to the board without indication of preference. The board will make the final selection and appointment of the president.

The chairman said the search committee plans to submit the final name or names to the Board of Trustees no later than Oct. 20. The board has established a tentative calendar for interviews with the candidate or candidates to begin Oct. 25.

Guidelines for the search committee were approved by the board in March, following the death of President John S. Rendleman on March 4. The board also appointed Kochman, who had been vice-president and provost at SIUE since 1971, to serve as acting president until a new president is selected.

Nominations and applications for the position totaled 223. The search committee began screening the candidates May 11, reducing the number to 13. The 13 were invited to Lambert Field in St. Louis for interviews in July and August, and the number of candidates was reduced to seven. Since then, another name has been dropped from the group of finalists.

The next step in the screening process was "on-site" visits by subcommittees of the search committee of the candidates'.

Through the first seven months of this year, steel industry employment averaged 453,233, down from 471,629 in the same 1975 period.

Happiness for giver and recipient through United Way

"Give happiness... and get a lot of joy in return."

This fall's Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign will be launched Thursday morning. The objective is to provide part of the operating funds for the 1977 services of local social, health, counseling and character-building agencies.

Local residents, employees, businesses, organizations and individuals are being called upon once again to give their fair share toward financing the vitally important work of United Way member agencies.

Because all have a stake in achieving and maintaining a safe, happy, healthy, wholesome community, all will find it in their own short-term and long-range interest to contribute generously.

Agency services are not easily categorized because they reach across so many lines, helping people of all faiths, all nationalities, all walks of life, all neighborhoods.

Just as "no man is an island," no one of us is immune to the life that goes on around him. No one is unaffected by the actions of others, no matter how widespread the occasionally understandable desire to avoid "involvement."

Each of us is affected every day, directly and tangibly, by the community in which the U.W. agencies perform their unselfish, meaningful, fruit-free, self-help efforts.

"We're all in this together," and the truth of our interdependence is abundantly clear in reviewing the many facets of the active, comprehensive Tri-Cities Area United Way program.

Mao's 'long march' through Chinese history at an end

A place in history is assured for Mao Tse-tung as one of the most successful revolutionaries the world has ever produced.

But, although Mao's long fascination with class struggle brought unprecedented unity to China in the years following World War II, the permanency of his legacy remains open to question. His death came amid rumblings of political unrest at home and a continuing threat of conflict with the Soviet Union, nagged by a split over Communist ideology.

The peak of Mao's career was victory in the bloody civil war that drove the followers of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek from the Chinese mainland to the island refuge of Taiwan.

Mao's efforts to cement the triumph with economic and political stability were less remarkable, plagued partly by his reliance on turmoil to promote his own Communist doctrine.

Mao's tenacious will rallied his Communist guerrillas during the legendary "Long March" of the 1930s that solidified the party structure in remote Yenan. It kept the Mao legend alive through the intraparty wrangling that persists today.

Nevertheless, a series of economic moves initiated by Mao proved unworkable.

Disastrous failures in commune projects and a continuing threat of conflict with the Soviet Union, nagged by a split over Communist ideology.

Terrorism could be defused through joint world action

Press-Record Washington Bureau—The hijacking of a Dutch airliner by three Palestinian guerrillas over the Labor Day weekend exhibits why West European nations are on the right track in seeking cooperative efforts to cope with international terrorism.

Before Cyprus police captured the hijackers, the act of hijacking involved a Dutch airliner, the air space of France and Israel and, of course, Cyprus. The passengers came from many nations.

The 18 West European nations hammering out a treaty to permit stem action against hijackers without stepping on national sensitivities have strong backing from the United States and the United Nations.

The treaty would set important precedents and mark the beginning of multinational efforts to control international gangs.

Heretofore, one of the problems has been the definition of a terrorist as contrasted with a political activist. The treaty draft solves the problem so simply that one wonders why somebody didn't think of it before.

Ministers from the 18 nations agree that any act which involves the use of bombs, hand grenades, rockets, automatic weapons and so forth, is not a legitimate political protest. Persons who use these weapons will be denied asylum in the countries that sign the proposed pact.

This would automatically close one big door to terrorists who typically avoid paying for their depredations by hijacking an aircraft and fleeing.

The 18 European nations have scheduled a meeting in Strasbourg, France, to begin the laborious process of drafting and ratifying the treaty. We hope they will achieve their goals.

However, that would be just a beginning. The European nations generally do not condone terrorism now and are vigorous in their prosecution of guerrillas.

Terrorism and hijacking will not be eliminated until the most militant holdout countries like Libya and Uganda are brought into the fold, which brings the focus on the United Nations.

The activity in the hall of nations also is constructive. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger already have picked up the idea and are urging international cooperation.

In this annual report to the Assembly, Waldheim urged action against terrorism, pointedly reminding members that unless they accede to majority rule the UN itself will be endangered.

The path ahead is hard and long. But perhaps Israel's daring rescue of a French jetliner's passengers at Entebbe, in Uganda, which did establish somewhat of a precedent in international law, will convince even the most militant UN members that a joint approach is safer than unilateral decisions.

Communist Vietnam's cruel policies cause poverty, death

Miami Herald—So vast was the quantity of Vietnam-era rubbish written about the beneficent North Vietnamese Communists, that the observations of those Americans recently expelled from Saigon have more than ordinary point.

What is going on in old South Vietnam, now that the beneficent North rules there? Nothing especially pretty.

As architect Frederick Guider relates, the "thousands of civilians found dead of Saigon into the countryside are 'dying like flies.' Disease is rampant; there is no medical care."

The Americans report being told by Vietnamese that the new government instituted agricultural zones lack water, tools, sanitary facilities and medicine. They also lack the fertility necessary for planting rice.

Poverty in the newly liberated country is general. Gasoline costs $12 a gallon, so driving is impossible for almost everyone. Other prices are equally outrageous.

The jobs, and those attempting to live on the small salaries the Communists have allotted, are selling off of their possessions in order to keep body and soul together.

What a strange conception of paradise the North Vietnamese entertain; or, on the other hand, perhaps they merely smirked upon reading the gushy, antiwar propaganda cranked out by Americans — propaganda about the corrupt regime of President Thieu. About the friendly, cooperative democracy presided over by the avuncular Ho Chi Minh.

Whatever the case, South Vietnam at last has seen the future — and it is hollow-eyed, enfeebling and vastly empty.

Many are eager to obtain sewers

To the Editor:

It gave me great pleasure—the Sept. 13 editorial concerning the sewers. I couldn't agree with it more.

I know there are more people who want the sewerage program continued, than who are "in for" to stop it.

I thought they were proven outnumbered, when they failed to obtain enough signatures to stop the sewerage program.

Now they have thought of another way to delay. It's time for us who want progress to continue to stand up and speak out.

It's time now, before inflation and the lack of funds prevent us from ever having sewers, that we worked so hard to bring us this far with the sewers.

Ogilvie security recoiled

By AL MANNING

— SPRINGFIELD — Many Republicans remember Richard B. Ogilvie as one of the best governors Illinois has ever had.

The praise him for his fiscal policies, management techniques and creative programs — and they relish comparing those to Gov. Dan Walker's policies of confrontation.

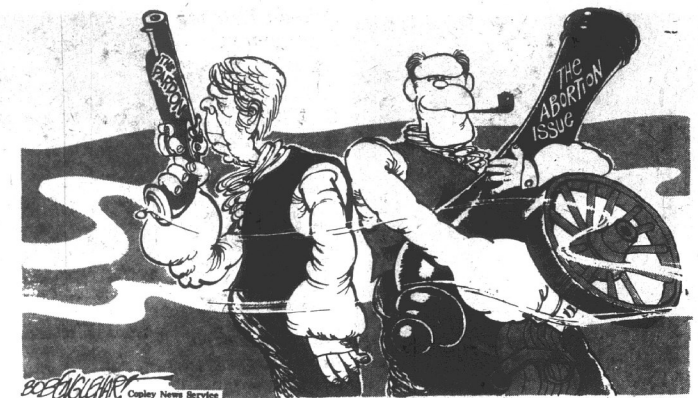

Even the Democrats praise Ogilvie for his political courage in proposing the needed income tax.

But the indictments of two former superintendents of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) reminded people of the ugly side of the Ogilvie administration.

The governor was extremely security-conscious. His security men were very visible and often prevented local citizens from shaking him or speaking to him when they saw him.

Prior to his election as the chief executive, Ogilvie was a sheriff. So toughness was a trademark of his administration.

But some people think the IBI in particular got carried away with its toughness. For example, some Democrats still fume when they think of the treatment they received when they were prevented from entering the Statehouse after Secretary of State Paul Powell's death.

One citizen even filed a successful lawsuit against Mitchell Ware, the first IBI superintendent, as the result of a drug raid at his home.

Ware and his successor, Richard Gibebe, were indicted on federal charges of illegally wiretapping telephones. The charges stem from the IBI's investigation of a sensational Chicago murder and a bombing case. It's far-fetched to think these indictments will have a direct bearing on this year's gubernatorial election, but they do point to an underlying factor in the contest.

The Republican Party is in dire straits across the nation during his administration. Partisan Democrats, in fact, blasted Thompson for his prosecution of former Democratic Gov. Otto Kern.

However, Michael Howlett, Thompson's opponent, would have difficulty making the use of police a campaign issue because Ware was the third-ranking policeman on Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's force. And Daley has had his own problems with the questionable use of police spying.

He has always felt he should have carried Illinois. Democrats did manage to elect L. Gov. Paul Simon, secretary of State Paul Powell and Auditor Michael J. Howlett.

Both parties in Illinois had troubles four years ago. Democrats had a bitter primary which produced the one-term era of Gov. Dan Walker. Ogilvie and the Republicans had the burden of the state's first income tax.

It was no contest in the presidential race as Nixon clobbered Democrat George McGovern by 874,707 votes. Both Sen. Percy and Atty. Gen. Scott won by more than a million votes.

In this instance, however, the income tax proved a bigger burden than a weak presidential candidate, and walker edged Ogilvie by 77,404 votes.

And this year's Illinois campaign is already a much confused one.

Final Illinois balloting for both president and governor

By KEN WATSON

— SPRINGFIELD — This will be the last year in which Illinois will vote for a president and a governor at the same time.

Republican and Democratic leaders will be having a joint sign of relief. Their political life is bound to be a little less complicated in the future.

Illinois is the last major state to separate presidential and gubernatorial elections and the effect is likely to be profound.

One result could be a return to comparative "normalcy" in political campaigns.

Illinois has "had what might be termed a "normal" campaign in at least 20 years.

One has to go back 1956 to find an election that bore a semblance to normalcy.

Then, popular President Dwight D. Eisenhower was running for a second term in a time of peace, prosperity and domestic calm. Nobody really thought that Illinois Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson had a chance in a re-run.

But Illinois Republicans did not have long to relax. The state ticket that summer seemed a mere apart with scandal.

Although GOP leaders did not worry about Eisenhower, there was great concern that Gov. William G. Stratton would be denied the customary second term and that Republicans might lose all the other state offices won four years previously.

But as so often happens in Illinois politics, the odds were quickly changed to the Republicans' aid. A comparatively minor scandal panicked Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley to drop his bid for reelection.

When the smoke cleared, Stratton had squeaked into a second term by a mere 36,877 votes, compared to Eisenhower's massive 447,646 plurality over Stevenson.

Republicans swept all other state offices by commanding margins.

But had Eisenhower not been on the ticket, who knows?

In 1960 it was the Republicans' turn for political misfortune. Despite his close shave four years earlier, and against the advice of most of the state's top GOP strategists, Stratton insisted on trying to break the third term jinx.

By the time the odds against him, it became certain months ahead of filing time that he would be facing popular Chicago Judge Otto Kerner as the Democratic nominee.

Everybody in politics knew that Stratton had about as much chance against Kerner as today's Cubs have against Philadelphia. But in losing to Kerner, he lost more than half a million votes he undoubtedly contributed to the Republicans' loss of Illinois in the customary second term and that Republicans might lose all the other state offices won four years previously.

Democrat John F. Kennedy was a razor-thin 4,538 vote victory over Kerner in 1964.

Had the presidential race been in another year, Nixon might well have carried Illinois. The entire GOP state ticket with the exception of Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter went down with Stratton.

If 1960 was bad for the Republicans, 1964 was even worse. The GOP indulged in self-flagellation at both the national and state levels.

The national convention persisted in nominating Conservative Barry Goldwater as governor, resigned late in the game to accept a federal judgeship. His successor on the ballot, Lt. Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro, didn't have too much time to campaign and went down before Republican Richard Ogilvie by 127,794 votes.

But a weak Democratic presidential candidate, Hubert Humphrey, hurt the Democratic state ticket. He lost Illinois to Nixon by 134,960 votes. The state Democratic situation may have hurt Humphrey, too.

Four years later it was the Democrats who threw away the governor's office, again with assistance from the top of the ticket.

The still popular Kerner, who many expected could win the first successive third term as governor, resigned late in the game to accept a federal judgeship. His successor on the ballot, Lt. Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro, didn't have too much time to campaign and went down before Republican Richard Ogilvie by 127,794 votes.

Candidates mum on replacement of tax

By RAY SERRATI

— SPRINGFIELD — There is still one tax question the General Assembly and state elected officials must answer.

What is to be done about repealing the personal property taxes now paid in Illinois by corporations?

The tax must be abolished by Jan. 1, 1979. The abolition is contained in the 1970 Constitution approved by the voters. But what will replace it, if anything?

Presently corporations are the only major personal property taxpayers in Illinois. They pay taxes on equipment such as trucks and capital stock.

In 1974 corporations paid some $408,103,675 in personal property taxes. The money was funneled to the local units of government, including public school districts.

It is estimated that nearly 60 per cent of that money went to the local public school districts. If that is correct, nearly $250 million went to the local school districts in 1974.

The General Assembly, state elected officials and school officials are faced with finding alternative revenue sources if the tax is removed. At this time it apparently is on the back burner. None of the candidates running for statewide office has ventured an alternative.

Nevertheless the question is going to have to be done. The situation will have to be faced by the new governor, who takes office next January, and the new General Assembly, which begins its two-year term in January.

The major alternative is to have the General Assembly approve a constitutional amendment to extend the corporate personal property tax.

This also could be a logical out until there is a final determination as to how much funding of school costs will come from the state.

If the General Assembly would approve a proposal to extend the corporate personal property tax next year, there still would be plenty of time to meet the removal deadline. Voters would be asked to act on the constitutional amendment in the November, 1978, general election.

Sen. John J. Ninnes, R-Glenview, during the legislative session indicated he was preparing a constitutional amendment to allow continuation of the corporate personal property tax.

During the session, Ninnes noted the General Assembly will have to consider solutions to the constitutional mandate in the next legislative session.

Will the corporate income taxes be raised to offset the loss? Business groups already are saying the high tax climate in Illinois is hurting reform of the union's internal procedures, providing the workers with more aggressive representation.

General Sadowski's supporters have been beaten and threatened with violence by union leaders, and both are expected to wage hard-fought campaigns. But the similarities end there.

McBride carries the official endorsement of the union machine. He won a re-run election in 1974 by a 2-1 margin after the Department of Labor threw out the first election for irregularities.

Sadowski is again challenging the union's past policies and leadership, running on a program dedicated to reform of the union's internal procedures, providing the workers with more aggressive representation.

General Sadowski's supporters have been beaten and threatened with violence by union leaders, and both are expected to wage hard-fought campaigns. But the similarities end there.

might well have carried Illinois. The entire GOP state ticket with the exception of Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter went down with Stratton.

If 1960 was bad for the Republicans, 1964 was even worse. The GOP indulged in self-flagellation at both the national and state levels.

The national convention persisted in nominating Conservative Barry Goldwater as governor, resigned late in the game to accept a federal judgeship. His successor on the ballot, Lt. Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro, didn't have too much time to campaign and went down before Republican Richard Ogilvie by 127,794 votes.

But a weak Democratic presidential candidate, Hubert Humphrey, hurt the Democratic state ticket. He lost Illinois to Nixon by 134,960 votes. The state Democratic situation may have hurt Humphrey, too.

Music, games, fun, conversation highlight 8th Senior Citizens Fair senior citizens at the eighth semi-annual fair, held at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Their instruments are made of kitchen utensils.

THESE LADIES GIVE A TOOT. Three members (above) of the AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) Rhythm Band of Granite City entertain 1,200

ATTENTIVE TO THE ACTIVITIES. Violet Bader and Ignace Weiss (above), members of the Madison Senior Citizens Band, relax with others in the Goshen

at the SIUE Senior Citizens Fair. A version of television's "dating game" generated even more excitement among the golden agers. A backstage view of the same band (picture below) shows some of the audience.
